MAGICIANS PERFORM AT ODEON THEATER

Douglas Family Also Puts On a Very Clever Act There.

An interesting variety bill of vaudeville is on at the Odeon for the last three days of this week. Lavine and Matthews have a magic act out of the ordinary. One minute they mystify you and the next they make you feel foolish by exposing the trick. Miss Marian Matthews is as charming as her partner is funny and he makes the audience laugh all the time. They have a number of amazing tricks in two of which a live cat and a duck figure. The act is worthy of liberal patronage.

Another splendid act is by the Douglass family, in character songs and dances. This act is composed of five very clever people, who do some very good dancing. The singing part of the show is exceptionally good and makes a big hit.

From a church-going woman to a gambler's accomplice in playing the ponies and finally running a low-brow tango dancing hall, is the character which Clara Whipple, the wife, plays face with her in later years in a cheap dance hall. Should he take her back to his bedside? "The Reapers" gives the answer from one of the most artistic as well as exceedingly dramatically powerful pictures ever presented in this theater.

Tomorrow, Madame Sarah Adler will appear in the wonderful Broadway masterpiece, "Sins of the Parents," a vital drama of today in five acts.

Alf Hayman has just issued a denial of the reported dissolution of the Frohman Company. He declares there is not a word of truth in the statement published.

A personally picked program is being shown today at the Bijou theater. Lubin presents a four reel subject called "The City of Falling Light," written by Anthony P. Kelly and produced by George W. Terwilliger. Herbert Fortier, the well known legitimate star assumes the principal part in a dual role and his skillful differentiation of the two men and the truth and finish of both characterizations could hardly be improved upon. Octavia Handworth, the popular star of many screen dramas, plays opposite in "The Reapers," the Equitable picture, showing at the Orpheum theater today. John Mason as the happy husband, who lavished everything on his wife, becomes a paralytic, sees his wife run away with a hardened gambler, only to come face to

Mr. Fortier, assuring a well acted drama from every point of view. Hearst Vitaphone No. 24 is an exceptionally interesting release portraying timely news events, latest spring fashions and a comedy cartoon. "The Hoodooed Helper" is the title of the seventh episode of "The Iron Claw," the superior serial featuring Pearl White, Creighton Hale and Sheldon Lewis.

D. L. Don, the popular Broadway comedian in "His Lordship," complete the all feature program. A program extraordinary will be shown Saturday. V. L. S. E. will present the beautiful emotional star, Gladys Hanson, in "The Havoc" by H. S. Sheldon and directed by Arthur Berthelet in five acts. Frank Daniels in "The Escapade of Mr. Jack No. 4," a roaring good comedy, will be the added attraction.

James T. Powers is to return to the stage in a piece called "Somebody's Luggage," to be produced by the Shuberts. Jeanne Eagles will have an important part in the production. Lee Kugel is to become a producer and one of his first essays in that line will be a dramatization by Rachel Crothers, of Louise Ford's novel, "Old Lady No. 31," which deals with an old woman's home, and pathetic pair brought there because they will not be separated. Emma Dunn will act the leading role. Two other plays Mr. Kugel will produce are one from the French, "Mother Love," and "The Fall of Babylon."

WHISKEY? NO. NOT FOR RHEUMATICS

Don't drink whiskey if you have rheumatism, and be sure and keep your feet warm and dry and drink plenty of lemonade. This advice, says an authority, is helping; but as all know who have suffered, rheumatism is a stubborn disease and yields only to a remedy mighty enough to conquer it. Many doctors have prescribed and hundreds of helpful druggists have advised a half teaspoonful of Rheuma one day, because they know that powerful Rheuma, harmless as it is, acts with a speed and overcomes in a few days the most torturing case of rheumatism or sciatica. Try Rheuma; Wells and Haymak-ers and all druggists sell lots of it and will return your money if two 50-cent bottles do not stop all rheumatic misery.—Advertisement.

At the Robinson Grand today another of those big Fox features is the attraction. It is "A Wife's Sacrifice," with Robert Mantell, Genevieve Harper, Stuart Holmes, Claire Whitney and Henry Leoni in the principal roles. This film has probably more stars in the enactment of the various parts than any that Fox has yet released.

While "A Wife's Sacrifice" was being filmed an incident, which proves quite interesting is worth repeating. Count de Briquet, one of the characters, at one time during the play, finds his wife in the arms of a stranger. The countess, though innocent, takes the blame unflinchingly. The furious count is about to slay the supposed lover of his wife. His pistol is raised—when a voice is heard to say, "It's four. Let's take tea." And the count and the countess and the supposed lover of his wife and all the rest slip tea at the conventional English hour. It is the idea of J. Gordon Edwards, who directed the new drama film. Edwards likes his tea, and he will not work without it. His company cannot work without him. Then, back to their places, the count's pistol is aimed anew, and down tumbles the supposed lover, dead.

"Jane's Birthday" is the title of the closing bill scheduled by "The Virginia Beauties" at the Palace theater for Friday and Saturday, and there is no doubt that this will prove another good program. This little company has had a very successful engagement here and every bill presented by it has been pleasing in every respect, especially the "Old Dominion" quartet.

Carl Armstrong, the blackface comedian, is presenting some new specialties and the quartet entertains with new songs. Mr. Armstrong is one of the best blackface comedians that has appeared at the Palace this season, and keeps the audience laughing all the time he is on the stage.

WESLEYAN TO PLAY HERE.

The opening game of the season for the Norwood park baseball team will be played May 12 when the West Virginia Wesleyan College team will appear here for the only game of the season. Wesleyan has a good team this season and if the park team wins the game it will give it an excellent start for the year.

OLD RIVALS MEET.

The Washington Irving high school baseball team will clash with its old time rivals, the Fairmont high school team, at Norwood park Saturday afternoon. If the weather conditions are favorable, the local team is in good condition and are hopeful for a victory.
